

Parent's Promise

I promise...

The parents and family members of many of our first year students participated in the Preview Orientation Program this summer and became members of the Parents' Association by reciting "The Parent's Promise." Many of you have requested that we provide you the words to this oath. As "promised," here they are. Are you keeping your promise?

- I promise not to use the word "homesick" in conversation with my student
- I promise to write letters, make phone calls, and send e-mails and care packages often.
- I promise to visit, but not without making prior arrangements.
- I promise to respect the changes I see in my student
- I promise to be patient, and to stop worrying (or at least to take a day off now and then.)
- I promise to trust my student to take responsibility for him or herself.
- I promise to offer my help only when it is asked of me; I will not be an interfering parent.
- I promise to seek help for my student, if he or she truly needs it.
- Finally, I promise to contact Parent Services when I break any of the above promises, or with any questions, concerns, or suggestions.
